Happiness Is Remembering . . .

As we look back on our past we remember how we were just starting our dream.

*But what do we really remember
of ourselves, the good times,
the bad, the happy, the sad?*

Could we bring back those memories or just cherish them?

*Remembering the joy and the laughter
the before and the after.*

As we go on in time, we progress our future, a step ahead, day after day.

We are now going further into the race of our dream.

Will we succeed or fail?

No one knows but thyself.

Remember how we were . . .

What do we really remember of ourselves?

future, a step ahead, day after day.

Double

Mr. Jackson, everyone in the Senior class thanks you for all the time and effort you gave us. Clean-ups at dances, usually with one or two people, set-up for the prom, and the fun we had in getting things together; none of these would be fond memories without you. No one will ever forget you, and we are all in debt to you for your patience. Mr. Jackson, we will miss you . . .

Dedication

Mr. Hammill, the senior class, especially the yearbook staff, would like to give you all our thanks. You have been so patient with us in getting this yearbook together. Without you, our yearbook wouldn't have ever gotten finished. After all the long hours you spent with us when everyone wanted to go home, sitting around with papers flying around everywhere, and a box of doughnuts sitting underneath it all, we don't see how you ever put up with us. We will miss you Mr. Hammill

Mr. Sheeran
Supervising Principal

Congratulations to each of you upon the successful START of your education and lifelong development; for such is your position today! You are starting what I hope will be a long and mostly happy journey to discover yourselves and your role in a vast, confusing and sometimes terrible world. I urge you to do only three things. One; try . . . keep trying, for no matter how bad you think things are "weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." Two; believe in your ability to improve things to make a difference. Three; give ample thought to those around you. Do these three things and I believe you will be happy and, more important, fulfilled!

Mr. Whyte
High School Principal

I would like to congratulate the Class of 1976, as you graduate during the United States Bicentennial year, and wish you every success for the future. John Burroughs, a well known author and naturalist, made this statement: "A man may fail many times, but he isn't a failure until he begins to blame somebody else." I think you, as the "Bicentennial Class," could well live by this ASSERTION as you enter society.

Mrs. O'Gorman

Dear Seniors:

Congratulations! You've done a fine job!

Your high school days are over. Regardless of your plans for the future, your learning experiences will continue. I hope they will always be exciting. Someone once said, "A smile is the shortest distance between two people." Keep smiling - you'll be warmly understood -
BEST WISHES

I had some fun this year. Don't just love
our class
and you will miss
us. Sorry
I won't have time
for home
to meet
you soon
going to be in your

PLYMOUTH ROCK

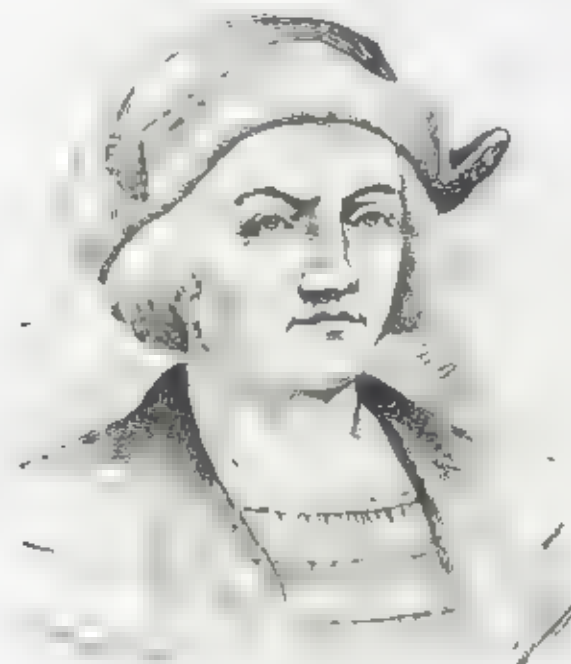

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America.

The first of these is the fact that the world is not a uniform whole, but a collection of many different parts, each of which has its own life and its own history. The second is the fact that the world is not a static whole, but a dynamic whole, which is constantly changing and developing. The third is the fact that the world is not a simple whole, but a complex whole, which is made up of many different elements and forces. The fourth is the fact that the world is not a single whole, but a many-whole, which is made up of many different parts, each of which has its own life and its own history. The fifth is the fact that the world is not a uniform whole, but a collection of many different parts, each of which has its own life and its own history. The sixth is the fact that the world is not a static whole, but a dynamic whole, which is constantly changing and developing. The seventh is the fact that the world is not a simple whole, but a complex whole, which is made up of many different elements and forces. The eighth is the fact that the world is not a single whole, but a many-whole, which is made up of many different parts, each of which has its own life and its own history. The ninth is the fact that the world is not a uniform whole, but a collection of many different parts, each of which has its own life and its own history. The tenth is the fact that the world is not a static whole, but a dynamic whole, which is constantly changing and developing. The eleventh is the fact that the world is not a simple whole, but a complex whole, which is made up of many different elements and forces. The twelfth is the fact that the world is not a single whole, but a many-whole, which is made up of many different parts, each of which has its own life and its own history. The thirteenth is the fact that the world is not a uniform whole, but a collection of many different parts, each of which has its own life and its own history. The fourteenth is the fact that the world is not a static whole, but a dynamic whole, which is constantly changing and developing. The fifteenth is the fact that the world is not a simple whole, but a complex whole, which is made up of many different elements and forces. The sixteenth is the fact that the world is not a single whole, but a many-whole, which is made up of many different parts, each of which has its own life and its own history. The seventeenth is the fact that the world is not a uniform whole, but a collection of many different parts, each of which has its own life and its own history. The eighteenth is the fact that the world is not a static whole, but a dynamic whole, which is constantly changing and developing. The nineteenth is the fact that the world is not a simple whole, but a complex whole, which is made up of many different elements and forces. The twentieth is the fact that the world is not a single whole, but a many-whole, which is made up of many different parts, each of which has its own life and its own history.
